Hello!

I'm Jaime Rapp, she/her, and I am excited to connect with you about instructional design and coaching.

I have more than 10 years of experience in education, and through my work with both educators and students, I have discovered a love for instructional design and creating fun, engaging, and effective learning experiences for a wide range of learners in a variety of contexts. Although I began my career as a classroom English and Drama teacher, I now work to train teachers and other school employees on issues of equity, diversity, and inclusion, both in-person and digitally. I recognize that folks are not always thrilled to have to participate in a training event, and I use empathy to create interactive workshops that meet people where they are and recognize that we all have room to grow, both personally and professionally.

In addition to having this mindset, I have a unique combination of experience and technical expertise that make me an excellent planner and facilitator. I have extensive multimedia skills including video production and design, LMS management, instructional design, and basic app and website coding. I am comfortable working with folks one-on-one and in groups of any size, and I understand how to adjust activities and materials to be delivered virtually or in-person. Most importantly, I love connecting with adult learners, and I get a real thrill from seeing someone comprehend a complex concept or make a new connection.

If you are interested in checking out some of the work I have done with my school and district, please take a look at my portfolio. I look forward to hearing from you!

Sincerely,

Jaime Rapp
